the seminar

In the first shake-up of the TUPE Regulations for seven years, the long anticipated changes to TUPE are expected to come into force in January 2014.

They make significant changes to the rules on service provision change, when variations to contracts of employment may take place and when dismissals are prohibited.

They also change the position on collectively agreed employment terms, a development which is hugely important for those tending for services from the public sector. Also significantly affected are employee liability information and redundancy consultation.

Learn about the changes, assess the impact on your organisation, pick up practical tips and hear from the UK's leading expert.

the speaker

Dr. John McMullen is a Partner at Wrigleys Solicitors LLP and Visiting Professor of Law at Durham University.

He has over 25 years of experience in employment law and is noted as being both a strategic thinker and leader in his field as well as being a practical hands-on lawyer.

By peer acclaim he is one of the leading lawyers in the UK with national and international reputation.

John is regarded as the leading expert in the UK on TUPE and is known variously as the “TUPE Guru” and the “King of TUPE”.

He is the author of the leading text book:

Business Transfers and Employee Rights.
